ÆTNA

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

OF HARTFORD, CONN.

THE ÆTNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Grew out of the Old Ætna Fire Insurance Company, having been first organized as a Branch of that Company. The Life Fund was afterward separated from the Fire Fund, with the same Stockholders as before. In 1850 the Mutual was combined with the Stock plan; by this combination the insured secure all the benefits of a Mutual Co., and the additional security which a safely invested capital affords. Since that time the ÆTNA has enjoyed unusual prosperity, and increased its business to an unprecedented extent. The energy and enterprise which have characterized its operations are best indicated by the following figures:--

The Receipts for the Year 1863 were $201,454 67.
The Receipts for the Year 1864 were 694,827 53.
The Receipts for the Year 1865 were 1,683,039 57.

The number of Policies issued during the year 1865 was 8819.

This UNPARALLELED GROWTH or "attainment of breadth" of base is well regarded by competent authority as the true measure of success.

The ÆTNA pays a 50 per cent. dividend on the premiums of ordinary Life Policies TWO YEARS from the first payment of premium. This is 6 per cent better than the 50 per cent. dividend paid by other Companies four years from the first payment of premium. The Ætna issues the usual

Life Plan and the Endowment Plan, also the

TEN-YEAR NON-FORFEITING POLICIES,

TEN-YEAR NON-FORFEITING ENDOWMENT POLICIES.

The Ætna stands ahead in new business and with the lowest expenses, which is the best guarantee to the insured.

S. D. & H. W. SMITH'S

AMERICAN ORGANS

MANUFACTORY,

Tremont, opposite Waltham St.,

BOSTON, MASS.

The most perfect and beautiful Musical Instrument in the world for the American Home Circle.

THE AMERICAN ORGAN makes Home Attractive, and refines and elevates the minds of all. Beautiful in its appearance and effects.

Seventeen--17--First Premiums were awarded to the American Organs IN THE MONTH OF OCTOBER, 1865, over all Competitors, at different State and County Fairs.

First Premium awarded to the American Organs at the Great New York State Agricultural Fair at Rochester, September 1864, over the Whole catalogue exhibited by the most Celebrated Makers.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS are the ONLY REAL REED ORGANS now before the public.--The only Organs having a REVERBERATING SOUND BOX or WIND CHEST--which has the same important part to perform as the Sounding Board has in a Piano Forte (to give body and resonance of tone) and without which the Organ becomes merely a Melodeon in an Organ case. The American Organs not only have the Wind Chest, or Sound-Box but have the large Organ Bellows, giving power and great steadiness of tone. These with their extreme fine voicing of the Reeds and perfecting of the tone, make them the MOST PERFECT ORGAN KNOWN. Then, in fineness of workmanship, finish of action, and case, they excel all others. These great improvements and superiority of tone and workmanship of the AMERICAN ORGANS place them in the first rank as the best, and command a higher price than any other reed instrument, in the market. A careful examination of them, in comparison with others, will quickly show their superiority.

Special attention is called to the style of AMERICAN ORGAN, No. 17, containing the Super-Octave Coupler and Sub-Bass. FOR CHURCHES in want of a powerful instrument, whose means are limited its price renders it very desirable.

EVERY ORGAN IS WARRANTED TO PROVE SATISFACTORY.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS all have the Reverberating Sound-Box, or Wind-Chest, and are finished in the highest style of art, in Rosewood, Jet Walnut, and Oak finish, richly Varnished and Polished, or in Smooth Oil Finish, forming elegant pieces of Furniture for the Parlor or Boudoir; and the Oak and Walnut especially adapted for Churches, Lecture and Lodge Rooms.

THE AMERICAN ORGANS are all finished with our new PATENT improvements, containing the improved Knee Swell, Double Bellows, (no Blow Pedals, and TREMOLO found in no other instrument.

The Commercial says--

Stocks have taken another upward bound. At the morning board there was a decided preponderance of buyers, and the whole list showed more strength than for some days. SLEEPING WITH THE HEAD TO THE NORTH. Herr Dr. Julius von Fischweiler, an eccentric German physician, recently died, leaving in his will what he considered a secret for increasing the years of our life. His own age was 109, and he attributed it to the fact that he always slept with his head to the north, and the rest of his body as nearly as possible in a meridional position. By this means, he thought, the iron in his body became magnetised, and thus increased the energy of the vital principle.

A HELPMEET INDEED. The following was received some days ago:

Mr. Editor:--

The good people of Maine are this winter circulating huge stories respecting their large hogs, valuable cattle, fast horses, and, furthermore, the remarkable activity of the old ladies, and the sprightliness of the enterprising young ones, &c., which we presume is to supply the deficiency of war news.

Concerning young ladies, we flatter ourselves that Charleston contains one, who cannot be outdone by any young lady in Maine, and, doubtless, by any one in the Union, if we may be allowed the indulgence of so incredible an expression.

This young lady is Miss Augusta Mordant, step-daughter of Hon. Reuben Hale, formerly of Concord, N. H., where he practiced the law for several years, but his health becoming seriously impaired by excessive application to his profession, he removed to Charleston and resumed farming, his former occupation.

Mr. H. has this winter been unable to do any out-door labor, in consequence of ill-health. Miss M. declared she could perform what is necessary, and commenced accordingly. During December last, she hauled on a hand-sled, from the woods, a distance of half a mile, twenty-five cords of bark, and piled it herself beside the main road, convenient for re-loading for market; and beside this, eight cords of wood the same distance. During January, she has threshed ninety bushels of grain in her father's barn, and hauled ten cords of wood to the door, on her hand sled, and she asserts that she is able to perform the same amount of labor in the next two months and is not ashamed for people to know it too. We have no reason for doubting her assertion as to a repetition of the same, as she is in fine health and spirits, and has gained fifteen pounds in flesh since November last, now weighing two hundred and twenty pounds.

She would not consent to her oldest brother remaining from College (he is preparing for the ministry,) to do the work, or, to assist her, and speaks of her two month's work as nothing uncommon excepting a part of the last month's, which has not been announced, and which is the capture of a soldier boy, and at which success she is highly elated. Said soldier boy is Lieut. George Speed, formerly of the 2d U. S. Colored Cavalry. They were united in the bonds of matrimony on the 25th ult.

Lieut. Speed and wife will leave town in a few days for Bowerbank, near Moosehead Lake, which is Mr. Speed's native place, and among whose rugged hills he possesses a new but productive farm, where a fine opportunity is afforded to develop the ability of his able-bodied half in agriculture and her skill in housewifery. We sincerely hope for their health and prosperity as deserts sufficiently merited.

A STEWART.

Charleston, January, 1866.

A recent number of the Calcutta Gazette contains an account of an aerolite, which fell at Shergotty on the 25th of August last. A native, who witnessed the fall of the aerolite, states that about 9 a. m., a stone fell from the heavens, accompanied by a very loud report, burying itself in the earth knee-deep, and at the same time the sky was cloudy and of a murky color, the air calm, and no rain. The stone has been forwarded by the government to the Asiatic Society of Bengal.

The New York Sun proposes that the sixty-nine Congressmen who have speeches to deliver on reconstruction be sent in a body to Fortress Monroe, and there read their speeches to Jeff Davis, the unhappy victim to be allowed only half an hour for each meal and six hours sleep each day, until the whole sixty-nine speeches are delivered.--Those who believe that "hanging is too good for Jeff. Davis" would pity the unhappy wretch who was thus doomed to listen.

Mr. De Bow calculates in his Review that the expense of planting 1000 acres in cotton and 250 in corn now is $74,000 and the income from an ordinary crop on that amount of land now is $159,000, leaving a margin of net profits of $84,600. That certainly is pretty good business. We have no doubt that a good many men are to make fortunes this season planting. Among the lucky fellows, we are glad to believe will be "a smart sprinkling of Yankees."

SHOCKING ACCIDENT. The Dayton (Ohio) Journal states that twenty-seven children were drowned in the reservoir at Celina, in that State, on Wednesday last. They were attending school in the vicinity of the reservoir, and at noon all the scholars but two--twenty-seven in number--went on the ice to slide, when it broke with them, the whole party drowning before help could reach them.

☞ Business letters should be addressed to the Publishers. "WHEELER & LYNDE."

FRIDAY, FEB. 16, 1866.

Mr. Trumbull's bill, which passed the House last week, is (says the Boston Journal) the type of considerable legislation that may yet become necessary. From the tirades of those opposed to it, one might infer that the bill was of the most severe and dangerous character. They talk about its arbitrary and tyrannical provisions, and its threatening innovations upon the safeguards heretofore thrown around human rights. But the whole measure is simply designed to secure and establish those rights in the case of every citizen of the United States. Its substance is contained in the second section, as follows:

There shall be no discrimination in civil rights or immunities among the inhabitants of any State or Territory of the United States on account of race, color, or their previous condition of slavery; but the inhabitants of every race and color, without regard to any previous condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall have the same right to make and enforce contracts, to sue the parties and to give evidence, to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property, and shall be subject to like punishments, pains and penalties, and to none other, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Surely a more fair, impartial and beneficent principle than that was never embodied in any legislative enactment. If there is any harm attending it, it must be in the means of enforcement authorized. But these, so far as we can judge, are not unusual, and are no more stringent than is requisite to their efficiency. Mr. Trumbull successfully vindicated them, in the Senate debate, against all arguments to the contrary. No, if there is any resulting hardship in such measures as these, it is occasioned wholly by those who deny the principles of equity that they embody, and seek to perpetuate a system of tyranny and injustice no longer allowed by the laws of the land. Let such persons drop their oppression and persecution of the colored race, and Mr. Trumbull's bill would become as harmless to them as the old laws against witchcraft. But so long as crying abuses exist, the Government is bound to seek their remedy, and the second article of the constitutional amendment abolishing slavery provides for and enjoins all suitable legislation therefor. Whatever happens, then, the Government and the loyal country must remain true to their pledge. The great work of emancipation, undertaken from solemn motives of right, and for the sake of the country's salvation, must be carried out to its thorough completion. The sooner, therefore, this fact is acknowledged and acquiesced in by all, the less stringent legislation for the South we shall have, and the more quickly will peace and harmony return to all sections of the country.

A Terrible Threat. In alluding to the recent fear expressed by the Mobile Advertiser that the chivalry will "emigrate" if the present aspect of National affairs continues, the Providence Journal thinks that among the risks, to which the nation may be subjected, that certainly must be reckoned as the very least. The Advertiser, publishes an extract from a letter of a man, who it says "owns the soul of a knight and a genius of the highest order." The said knight affirms that after wandering in the woods since the downfall of the rebellion like a "melancholy Jacques" or jackass, refusing to be comforted, and never forgiving Jeff. Davis or his corps of cherished imbeciles, he has come to the solemn conclusion that he shall never gain his self respect until he is once more a citizen or subject of a government of his own choice. So he thinks of christening his thoughts by a look at the White Lady" that looks down on lofty Popocatapetl, or of cooling them by a contemplation of the summit of Orizaba. Now we should say, by all means melancholy knight, if you can "raise the wind," if you can find anybody chivalric enough to loan you the wherewithal to get in sight of the White Lady of Popocatapetl or the summit of Orizaba, go, by all means go. Do not delay for any undue tenderness for your native country. Do not tarry, because you fear that she will suffer for the want of your "genius of the highest order." It is no doubt sad for us to lose "a knight," but you feel so badly that your country will try to endure the separation, if you can. On the whole we think she has enough "melancholy Jacques" wandering around in the woods. The Advertiser mournfully says that this knight is "ready to fly from a land darkened by the power of New England superstition, and believes that his conquered countrymen are destined to wear the chains of a cold, heartless and hypocritical Puritan pietism, and he shrinks in horror from the sight." That journal is silly enough to base an appeal to the government on such whinings of a moon struck sentimentalist, and assures us that there are others like him whom we by our harsh policy are driving from the land. There is no danger that many such fellows as he will leave their native land to go to Mexico or Brazil and earn their living. We shall hear no such good news as the announcement of their departure. They had much rather stay at home and growl at "Northern radicalism and Puritan pietism." We had always maintained that only a few of them would leave the land. One or two small companies alone have migrated. A score or two of rebel Governors, Generals and other functionaries, who, at the downfall of the rebellion fled across the Rio Grande, are still down in the chaparrals of Mexico. But most of them wish to return, and will be back much sooner than we want to see them.

The 20th army corps, which is composed of colored troops, is to be brought to City Point and quartered in the barracks there until it can be mustered out of the service at an early day.

The Dam at Treat's Falls.

The act now before the Legislature to authorize a dam at Treat's Falls, is as follows:

An act additional to an act to incorporate the Penobscot Mill Dam Company.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled, as follows:

Sect. 1. The Penobscot Mill Dam Company are authorized to hold real and personal estate of a value not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars, to impose and collect assessments not exceeding five hundred dollars on each of one thousand shares into which the capital stock is now divided, and to increase the number of shares, if they shall see fit, by issuing five new shares in the lieu of one of the present shares.

Sec. 2. The said company, to carry out the objects set forth in their charter, may erect a dam at or near Treat's Falls in Penobscot river, not exceeding fifteen feet in height above mean high tide, and if such erection shall damage by flowage the lands or mill property of any person, the damages sustained by such person, if not agreed upon between such person and said company, shall be estimated in the manner as is provided in chapter ninety-two of the Revised Statutes, except that in lieu of an estimation of the annual damages, there shall be an estimation of the sum which should be paid presently as a compensation in full for all damages and injuries resulting from the erection and permanent maintenance of the dam hereby authorized, and the remedy for the recovery of said damages shall be the same as prescribed in said chapter ninety-two, and the judgment for said damages shall be and constitute the first lien on all the property, real and personal, of the Penobscot Mill Dam Company; and the dam hereby authorized shall not be commenced until a bond, with sufficient sureties, is given for the payment of damages to any person who may apply for such security to any Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, the amount and sufficiency of such bond to be determined by said Justice, and for good cause subsequently appearing to any Justice of said court, the amount of such bond may be increased, or additional sureties thereto may be required, and until the bond as directed in this section is furnished, the building of the dam may be restrained by injunction. Provided, however, that said company shall not be liable to pay damages for the flowage of any mill property which they are now lawfully authorized to cause without paying damages under the act incorporating said company, and the several acts additional thereto, which are hereby declared to be and remain in full force; and provided further, that no dam shall be constructed by said corporation that shall obstruct, injure or impair any mill or factory privileges in the town of Orono.

Sec. 3. The said company shall at all times be required to maintain a good and sufficient sluiceway for the passage of rafts and timber, and also to maintain a good and sufficient lock for the passage of boats and rafts, with sufficient attendance upon the same, free of tolls upon all rafts and timber, and only such tolls on vessels, boats and their cargoes, as is now provided by law; and the said corporation by the erection of their dam shall not impair, lessen or impede the navigation and free passage of vessels, boats, rafts, lumber and fish over and through said dam, more than the same shall be improved and benefited by the acts of said corporation.

Sec. 4. If the company shall neglect to maintain such sluiceway or lock as is required in section three, any person suffering damage by reason of such neglect shall have the remedy of an action on the case against said company, in any court competent to try the same, and furthermore said company shall be liable to indictment, and to a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars for the use of the state; provided, however, that not more than one indictment shall be found for any such neglect in any one year.

Sec. 5. The grants of power given in this act shall cease, and expire unless the dam herein authorized shall be built within three years from the approval of this act.

New Books.

From Messrs. Bugbee & Co. we receive the two concluding volumes of "A Youth's History of the Rebellion," by William M. Thayer, author of "The Pioneer Boy," &c.—a most popular and interesting work for the young, and one which has had, as we understand, a great run, and deservedly so. It is published in excellent style, with handsome illustrations, by Messrs. Walker, Fuller & Co., Boston. The third volume brings the history down from the battle of Murfreesboro' to the passage of Fort Pillow; and the fourth volume brings the tale to its glorious end.

The four volumes, embracing the complete history in beautiful binding are put up in neat boxes and for sale by Bugbee & Co. A nice present to a favorite boy or girl.

Also from Bugbee & Co. a copy of a beautiful volume of poems, entitled "Hymns for Mothers and Children," published in exquisite style, upon tinted paper, by Messrs. Walker, Fuller & Co., Boston. The volume is compiled by the editor of "Hymns of the Ages," and embraces 340 pages of well of well selected hymns from the best authors. Among them are some of the most beautiful and touching poems in the language.

The Oldest One Yet. The Portage (Wisconsin) Register chronicles the death at Coledonia, in that State, on the 27th ult., of Joseph Crele, born near Detroit, Michigan, in 1725, and who had attained, therefore, the amazing age of One Hundred and Forty Years. He was born seven years before George Washington, and was fifty years old at the outbreak of the American Revolution; so that he might, even then, have claimed exemption from military service. He was 44 year old at the birth of Napoleon I. He was 62 years old when the Federal Constitution was formed, and 84 when Abraham Lincoln was born. We know but one longer life than his in modern times, that of Parr, the Englishman, who is recorded to have been born in 1483, and to have died in 1635, at the ripe age of 152. Crele's baptism is said to be on record in the French Catholic Church in Detroit; so that his age would seem to be duly authenticated.

Gen. Butler a Virginian Farmer.—A special Washington despatch to a New York contemporary says that Gen'l Butler has just closed negotiations for a valuable mill property on the James River, near Richmond, intending to erect extensive cotton factories. The Ox farm, containing 2800 acres, through which runs Dutch Gap Canal, has been offered to the General, and he has in contemplation its purchase. New England families and mill operators will be settled upon it.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.

The Bank at Liberty, Clay county, Mo., was robbed Tuesday afternoon, of $72,000, under the following circumstances:

Twelve men entered the town, about two o'clock, three of whom guarded the suburbs. The other nine went to the Clay Co. Savings Association. Seven guarded the outside of the building, while the other two entered and presented cocked revolvers at the heads of Mr. Bond, the Cashier, and his son, forced them into the vault and compelled them to deliver up all the money in the bank. As the robbers were leaving, Mr. Bond thrust his head out of a window and gave the alarm. A boy named Wyman repeated the alarm, and was shot five times and instantly killed, by the robbers, who mounted their horses and escaped. A party of thirty citizens started in pursuit, and fifty more followed yesterday, but at last accounts no captures had been made. The robbers divided the money at Mount Gilead church, ten miles from Liberty, to enable them to scatter, if necessary. Three of the robbers were recognized as notorious bushwhackers during the war.

At the west the weather was intensely cold yesterday morning, and it was rapidly growing cold here last evening.

SUDDEN DEATH. Mr. James Jones, an elderly man while passing up Broad street yesterday afternoon, fell on the sidewalk, and after being taken up and carried into Mr Dale's store, died in a few moments, from disease of the heart. PORTLAND & KEN. R. R. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Portland and Kennebec Railroad Company was held at Brunswick on Monday. The reports of the President and Treasurer, from which we shall make abstracts hereafter, were accepted and the following Board of Directors was unanimously chosen: R. D. Rice, H. N. Jose, John B. Brown, George F. Patten, Wm. D. Sewall, George F. Shepley, N. M. Whitmore, Darius Alden and Philander Coburn. At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Hon. R. D. Rice was chosen President and J. S. Cushing, Clerk. The road has been admirably conducted and has done an excellent business during the year past, notwithstanding its heavy losses by fire in Augusta. The total earnings were $530,316; total expenses $432,607. Net earnings $97,709.

We understand the Maine Central will also show a handsome balance at its annual meeting, which takes place at Waterville Feb. 28.

MAINE CENTRAL INSTITUTE. Mr. Editor—The Trustees of the Maine Central Institute held their first meeting at the office of Going Hathorn, Esq., in Pittsfield, on the evening of the 13th inst.

The meeting was called to order and prayer offered by Orin B. Cheney, D. D. of Lewiston.

The charter recently granted by the Legislature was accepted, and a code of by-laws for the regulation of the Board of Trustees presented by O. B. Cheney was adopted, under which the following officers were elected and appointed:

President of the Board—O. B. Cheney, D. D., of Lewiston.

Secretary of the Board—Obid Foss, Esq., of Pittsfield.

Treasurer of the Board—Wm. L. Hathorn, of Pittsfield.

Executive Committee—Rev. N. F. Weymouth of Pittsfield: Going Hathorn, Esq., of Pittsfield; J. C. Conner of Pittsfield; Rev. L. L. Harmon, of Bangor; Hon. E. Knowlton, of Montville.

Auditors—Going Hathorn, Esq., of Pittsfield; J. C. Comer, Esq., of Pittsfield.

Examining Committee—Obid Foss, Esq., of Pittsfield; Rev. L. L. Harmon, of Bangor; Prof. L. W. Stanton, of Lewiston.

Teacher of Music—Miss Caroline Warren of Massachusetts.

Three vacancies were filled in the Board of Trustees by the election of Wm. K. Lancey of Pittsfield, Rev. Enoch Pond and A. L. Gerrish, both of Bangor.

It was determined to have the first term of school commence in September next, under the direction of Mr Arthur Given, Jr., of Lewiston, Principal and Miss Ellen Knowlton, of Montville, Preceptress.

It was not contemplated to commence the erection of buildings the present year, but to occupy the school rooms and church of the village, until such time as it is thought prudent to erect suitable buildings.

The Trustees are determined that this school shall be a first class institution and worth the patronage of the public and the ostering care of all friends of education.

L. L. H.

—A resolve has been reported in the Legislature that the Governor, the Chief Justice of the S. J. Court, and the President of the Senate, ex officio, be constituted a commission to have charge of and to secure the creation of a monument at such place, and of such a character and design as it shall determine, to the memory of the gallant sons of Maine who have fallen in the defence of the government during the late rebellion.—The resolve appropriates the sum of $30,000 for this purpose.

—The store of Oliver O. Eddy at Clifton, with all its contents, was entirely consumed by fire on Wednesday night. Loss $1500; No insurance.

—Miss May, sister of Judge May, lately had a trunk stolen from the Boston & Maine Railroad Station at Boston. It was found that a young man had pointed out the trunk to a hackman as his, and ordered it to the Irving House. On repairing to that house, the trunk was found emptied of all its contents except a Bible, which the thief, evidently not being pious, left behind. No further trace of the property could be discovered till, on Monday, the contents of the trunk were found and the thief arrested.

MUTTY'S Friction Feed Roller,

FOR CIRCULAR SAWS.

PATENTED JANUARY 23d, 1866.

THIS INVENTION is applicable to all Circular Saws provided with stationary tables and used for re-sawing lumber.

It reduces the labor of sawing one half, and fifty per cent. more lumber can be sawed, with, than without its use. It is applied without change of existing machinery; is not liable to get out of repair, and not expensive to apply.

It has been in practical use on the Penobscot river for one year, where the above facts have been fully and satisfactorily demonstrated, as is shown by the certificates of master mill-men, machinists, owners and operators of mills appended hereto.

The undersigned have for the past season witnessed the practical use of MUTTY'S FEED ROLLER in re-sawing lumber, and we cheerfully recommend it as a practical, economical, and labor-saving invention, destined to come into general use in all cases where lumber is re-sawed upon stationary tables. We are fully satisfied from our own observation that the saving effected, and extra amount cut, by its use, is fully as large as the estimate above given.

At Last, Our Native Land is Free.

BY HORACE B. DURANT.

Land where the exiled pilgrims came,
Across the stormy sea,
This day we sing thy lasting fame,
The anthem of the free!
This day our banner is unfurled
Without one blot or stain,
And proudly floats across the world,
And rules the rolling main!

Again the stars that gem the deep
Shall flash with purer glow,
Than erst they lit the rocky steep
Of Plymouth long ago!
Once more the dark old woods that fling
Their arms within the blast,
And with the wave and tempest sing
Our triumph o'er the past.

Our land is free! free as the air
That sweeps her mountain height;
Fair as the gems that tremble there
Upon the brow of night!
And when the day-god's rosy blush
Floods rock and river o'er,
Or bathes them in his farewell flush,
'Tis Freedom's evermore!

Away over hill and dale and flood,
A mighty voice hath sped,
That this broad land, twice won in blood,
No vassal foot shall tread!
No fettered race shall toil for aye,
Crushed to the galling dust;
No proud imperious hand shall sway
The people's sacred trust!

Bright banner of the starry fold,
This day the field is won;
And shades of error backward roll'd
Like mists before the sun!
This day doth seal the fate of kings,
And shake the tyrant's throne;
And to the "sovereign people" brings
The right to rule alone!

THE ALCHEMY OF LIFE.

(Concluded.)

The door opened and she passed in. How narrow, and still, and cheerless. [illegible] she was impressed. The servant showed [illegible] into a small parlor. It seemed to her as if she could stand in the centre of the room and touch the walls on both sides.

She did not wait many minutes, yet, in that short period, she noticed a small fernery in the pier, a hanging basket of plants at one end of the windows, a vase containing a phantom boquet on the mantle-piece, and some choice cabinet pictures on the walls. She was about rising to look more closely at one of the pictures, when she heard the approaching footsteps of her friend.

'Mrs. Eldridge, how glad I am to see you.'

'And Mrs. Armat came forward quickly, her face radiant with smiles, her voice cheery as of old.

The friends clasped hands, and stood looking into each others' eyes. A stranger reading the two faces, would have been at no loss to determine which had the more peaceful spirit.

'Oh, I have thought of you so much!' exclaimed Mrs. Eldridge, her voice full of tender emotion. Her sight grew dim with feeling.

'It is very pleasant to look into your face again,' said Mrs. Armat, as she led her friend to a sofa and sat down beside her. 'Why haven't you been here before?'

'Simply,' replied Mrs. Eldridge, 'because I hadn't the heart to come. I am frank, you see. No friend has felt more deeply distressed over your misfortunes. I have really suffered on your account. How can you bear it?'

'Bear what?' asked Mrs. Armat.

And Mrs. Eldridge glanced around the room. Then she added—

'But, pray, forgive me for referring to it.'

'No cloud came over Mrs. Armat's serene face.

'I am not unhappy,' she said. 'I do not find anything hard, or hurtful, or unpleasant in my relation to the world. Since we have removed to the city and contracted our lines, I think I have been a happier woman than before.'

'Impossible, Mrs. Armat!' said her friend, with manifest incredulity. 'Happier here?'

And she glanced once more around the room.

'I have my husband and children,' replied Mrs. Armat, 'and we have come so much closer together that we feel a new sphere of love. In our old home we had gathered about us so many and such various things, that enjoyment of all was impossible. External good, from its very abundance, had grown burdensome, and ceased to minister adequately to the inner life. It is different now. My external good is no longer burdensome, but full of satisfaction.'

'I cannot understand it,' said Mrs. Eldridge.

'It is all very plain, my friend,' was answered. 'There is no enjoyment in the simple possession of natural good things, no matter how richly abundant they may lie around our feet. We only enjoy what we use to the right purpose. The more we have, the harder our task will be in compassing a right disposition therefor, and just in the degree that we fail in this will be our inward disquietude. I had more than I can use, and the excess spoiled on my hands like the excess of manna gathered by the Israelites. Now I can enjoy all that I have. My plants are few, but I know every leaf, and bud, and blossom, and this close familiarity makes them dearer. I see a hundred curious and beautiful things in their growth, order, habits, and peculiarities. I am never tired of looking at my half a dozen pictures, small though they be. They are true works of art, and my sense of the beautiful and harmonious is newly excited whenever my eyes rest upon them. These skeleton leaves'—and Mrs. Armat arose and went to the mantle-piece—'have interested me very much. I tried to make a bouquet of them several times while in the country, but had so many things to look after that I was not able to follow up all the processes. These I have skeletoned since our removal. Are they not exquisite? Did you ever see anything so delicately beautiful? Fine almost as gossamer! Aptly enough are they called 'phantom bouquets.'

Mrs. Armat was all animation. Her face glowed, her eyes sparkled; every attitude and emotion expressed enjoyment.

'Dear friend,' said Mrs. Eldridge, laying a hand upon the arm of Mrs. Armat, while a veil of sadness drooped down over her face, 'what would I not give for your mental alchemy, by which the commonest things in life are transmuted into gold.' 'I come to offer you sympathy, to speak some possible words of comfort—and, lo! I find you happier far amid your few things than I am in my abundance.'

'Have I not already given you the secret?' asked Mrs. Armat.

'What?'

'Use is the philosopher's stone. Its touch will give to the commonest things a priceless value for the soul. The making of a loaf of bread may be in itself very dull and common work; but if I savor this work with a desire to feed the hungry—to give health, strength, and pleasure to my husband and children, may I not extract therefrom the purest of mental enjoyments? A senseless drone may pour water upon a plant and feel no interior reward; but if I perform the same act, and see in the grounds thirsty absorption of moisture the sure promise of flower and fruit, have I not created for myself out of humblest things, an essential delight? I may pay a servant her wages, and grudge the transfer of money, or I may let my thoughts dwell on the good she will derive from a proper expenditure of her earnings. Will not the difference to me be very great? I can bless or I can curse myself. I can get honey or gall from all the things with which life brings me in contact. Which shall I take, the honey or the gall?'

When Mrs. Eldridge returned to her own home, and sat down amid her luxurious things, she felt rebuked and humbled.

'With all these elements of joy around me,' said she communing with herself, 'and yet not able to extract happiness for a day; while with a few things, Mrs. Armat finds constant pleasure. I asked and gained her secret; but can I make it my own? Can I use it for transmutation of all things into gold? Not without an effort,' she said, perceiving an old listless state creeping over her; and with a roused feeling she added, 'I must use the reason and the powers given me by God, if I would enjoy the blessings poured into my lap with such unbounded measure—I must use them, and I will.'

If Mrs. Eldridge profited by what she had heard, seen and received, well for her; but whether yea or nay, you kind reader, may find profit in what has been written, and make your life happier than it has ever been.

Extracts from Senator Morrill's Speech.

(In the Senate of the United States, Feb. 1, upon the amendment declaring all persons born in this country to be citizens of the United States.)

"Sir, this amendment marks an epoch in the history of this country, and from this time forward the legislation takes a fresh and new departure. Sir, to-day is the first hour since this Government began when it was possible to have enacted it. Such has been the situation of politics in this country, nay, sir, such have been the provisions of the fundamental law of this country, that such legislation has never been possible. There has been no time since the foundation of the Government when an American Congress could by possibility have enacted such a law, or with propriety have made such a declaration. What is this declaration? All persons born in this country are citizens. That never was so before. Although I have said that by the fundamental principles of American law all persons were entitled to be citizens by birth, we all know that there was an exceptional condition in the government of the country which provided for an exception to this general rule. Here were four million slaves in this country that were not citizens, not citizens by the general policy of the country, not citizens on account of their condition of servitude; up to this hour they could not have been treated by us as citizens; so long as that provision in the Constitution which recognized this exceptional condition remained the fundamental law of the country, such a declaration would not have been legal, could not have been enacted by Congress. I hail it, therefore, as a declaration which typifies a great fundamental change in the politics of the country, and which justifies the declaration now.

The Senator from Kentucky denounces as a usurpation this measure, and particularly this amendment, this declaration. He says it is not within the principles of the Constitution. That it is extraordinary I admit. That the measure is not ordinary is most clear. There is no parallel, I have already said, in the history of this country; there is no parallel in the history of any country. No nation from the foundation of government has ever undertaken to make a legislative declaration so broad. Why? Because no nation has hitherto cherished a liberty so universal. The ancient republics were all exceptional in their liberty; they all had excepted classes, subjected classes, which were not the subject of government; and therefore they could not legislate. That it is extraordinary and without a parallel in the history of this Government or of any other does not affect the character of the declaration itself.

The Senator from Kentucky tells us that the proposition is revolutionary, and he thinks that is an objection. I freely concede that it is revolutionary. I admit that this species of legislation is absolutely revolutionary. But are we not in the midst of revolution? Is the Senator from Kentucky utterly oblivious to the grand results of four years of war? Are we not in the midst of a civil and political revolution which has changed the fundamental principles of our Government in some respects? Sir, is it no revolution that you have changed the entire system of servitude in this country? Is it no revolution that now you can no longer talk of two systems of civilization in this country? Four short years back I remember to have listened to eloquent speeches in this Chamber, in which we were told that there was a great antagonism in our institutions; that there were two civilizations, that there was a civilization based on servitude, and that it was antagonistic to the free institutions of the country. Where is that? Gone forever. That result is a revolution, grander and sublimer than the world has witnessed hitherto.

I accept, then, what the Senator from Kentucky thinks so obnoxious. We are in the midst of revolution. We have revolutionized this Constitution of ours to that extent; and every substantial change in the constitution of a country is a revolution.—Why, sir, the Constitution even provides for revolutionizing itself. Nay, more, it contemplates it; contemplates that in the changing phases of life, civil and political, changes in the fundamental law will become necessary; and it is needful for me to advert to the facts and events of the last four or five years to justify the declaration that revolution here is not only radical and thorough, but the result of the events of the last four years. Of course I mean to contend in all I say that the revolution of which I speak should be peaceful, as on the part of the Government here it has been peaceful. It grows out, to be sure, of an assault upon our institutions by those whose purpose it was to overthrow the Government; but on the part of the Government it has been within the forms of the Constitution; but a revolution nevertheless.

But the honorable Senator from Kentucky insists that it is a usurpation. Not so, sir. Although it is a revolution radical, as I contend, it was not a usurpation. It was not a usurpation because it took place within the provisions contemplated in the Constitution. More than that, it was a change precisely in harmony with the general principles of the Government. The change which has been made has destroyed that which was exceptional in our institutions; and the action of the Government in regard to it was provoked by the enemies of the Government.

But, Mr. President, it is said that this amendment raises the general question of the antagonism of the races, which we are told is a well-established fact. It is said that no intelligent man, no intelligent legislator or statesman should ever act without reference to that grand historical fact; and the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. Cowan] on a former occasion asserted that this Government, that American Society, had been established here upon the principle of exclusion, as he termed it, of the inferior and barbarian races. Mr. President, I deny that proposition as a historical fact. Was not America said to be the land of refuge? Has it not been since the earliest period held up as an asylum for the oppressed of all nations?

Hither, allow me to ask, have not all the peoples of the nations of the earth come for an asylum and for refuge? All the nations of the earth, and all the varieties of the races of the nations of the earth have gathered here. In the early settlements of the country, the Irish, the French, the Swede, the Turk, the Italian, the Moor, and so I might enumerate all the races and all the variety of races, came here, and it is a fundamental mistake to suppose that settlement was begun here in the interests of any class or condition or race of interest. The western continent was looked to as an asylum for the oppressed of all nations and of all races. Hither all nations and all races have come. Here, sir, upon the grand plane of republican democratic liberty, they have undertaken to work out the great problem of man's capacity for self-government without stint or limit.

Then the honorable Senator advances one step further, and contends that not only was society formed in the interests of a race—the superior race, as he pleased to call it—but that Government here was organized in the interest of a race. I deny it utterly. I deny that Government was organized in the interest of any race or color, and there is neither "race" nor "color" in our history politically or civilly—not a bit of it. Is there any "color" or "race" in the Declaration of Independence, allow me to ask? "All men are created equal," excludes the idea of race or color or caste. There never was in the history of this country any other distinction than that of condition, and it was all condition."

Travelers Insurance Co.,

Insures Against.

ACCIDENTS,

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
CAUSING LOSS OF LIFE OR BODILY INJURY.

THE TRAVELERS INSURANCE COMPANY was organized, under a charter granted by the Connecticut Legislature of 1863, and amended by the Legislature of 1864, for the specific purpose of effecting INSURANCE AGAINST ACCIDENTS, of whatever kind or description, whether they occur in travelling by railroad, steamboat or stage-coach, walking in the street, at work in the shop, or sitting by the domestic fireside, whether riding, boating, hunting, fishing, shooting, swimming, cricketing, surveying, engineering, whether working, or playing, sleeping or waking, in danger or out of (apparent) danger, at home or abroad—in every variety of circumstances in which mankind are ordinarily placed.

A General Accident Policy not only includes the risk in travelling, but also all forms of dislocations, broken bones, ruptured tendons, sprains, concussions, crushings, bruises, cuts, stabs, gunshot wounds, poisoned wounds, burns and scalds, bites of dogs, unprovoked assaults by burglars, robbers or murderers—the action of lightning or sun stroke, the effects of explosions, chemicals, floods and earthquakes, suffocation by drowning or choking.

This company has now been for more than a year in successful operation; has issued over fifteen thousand policies, and paid numerous claims for compensation, has a directory of high character, and is managed with the prudence and sagacity which distinguish Hartford insurance companies; has an ample capital and large surplus, and its soundness and stability may be relied upon.

HAMPDEN ACADEMY.

THE SPRING TERM of this Institution will commence on MONDAY, Feb. 19, and continue eleven weeks, under the old Board of Instructors.

W. H. Lambert, A. B., Principal.
Miss Ruth Babcock, Preceptress.
Miss Lizzie Crosby, Teacher of Drawing, Painting, &c.
Miss Clara C. Hill, Teacher of Music,
H. M. Foss, Teacher of Penmanship.

This is one of the oldest Institutions of learning in the State—having been incorporated in 1803—and has constantly enjoyed a most deserved popularity, which it is the effort of the present Instructors to sustain.

The Academy is pleasantly situated between the villages of Upper and Lower Hampden, on an elevated and healthful situation, sufficiently retired from the business parts of the villages to make it a very desirable place for study. The school rooms are commodious, and have of late been refitted in the most approved manner.

The villages of Hampden offer to Students resorting here, the various advantages of good society, several meetings of public worship, good boarding places, and very easy access from almost every quarter.

Boarding places can be secured, and further particulars had, on addressing the Principal.

Instruction will be eminently practical in such studies as Book-Keeping, Surveying, &c. The principles of the Natural Sciences will be suitably illustrated. Navigation, and the higher branches of Mathematics will be thoroughly taught; and those preparing to teach will receive especial attention.

Especial care will also be bestowed upon those pursuing the Ancient Languages preparatory to entering College, or otherwise.

Those studying the Modern Languages will have the benefit of a most thorough and accomplished Teacher in that department.

As the Academy is provided with a well-furnished Laboratory, those pursuing the subject of Chemistry will here receive a most important advantage.

A well-selected Library of about six hundred volumes, is open to the use of Students, and furnishes valuable means for reading and reference.

TUITION.

Higher English,	4.50

Oriental Hair Restorer.

After a long series of experiments, this article, as it is now offered to the public, is believed to be the most perfect of its kind which science has ever devised. No pains have been spared to produce what has so long been demanded by thousands, who, from sickness or other causes, have become prematurely grey; and others, who, in the sere and yellow leaf of life, would retain, as far as possible, the semblance of youth. Dr. Knights' Oriental Hair Restorer, after a few applications, restores grey or faded hair to its original color, and is the only preparation of the kind upon which the public can place any reliance. It has never been known to fail in a single instance, and is totally unlike the thousand and one so-called Hair Restorers, by which so many have been egregiously deceived.

It is delightfully perfumed, gives the hair a rich and glossy appearance, promotes its luxuriant growth, and will not soil the skin, scalp, or any article of apparel.
